

APPENDIX A(2)

Common elements of community engagement approaches identified in a review of the evidence in relation to community engagement/resilience

- Targeted, group based or individual resilience initiatives may be beneficial for some groups
- User involvement (consultation/participation) e.g. health service initiatives
- Community participation
- Using health care practitioners (in the field) to take on community development roles
- Partnerships/coalitions between local communities and professionals/service providers
- Utilising community engagement approaches to engage minority groups
- Utilisation of community engagement for health promotion initiatives.